

1. Access to Research - science for the public: walk in use

2. A national / local MOOC platform: which MOOCs are of interest for your local community and how to use them?

3. Science café in the public library / pop-up-scientist

4. Citizen Science platform, promote. bring together, organize living labs, connect with local citizen science projects

5. Make OA collections such as OAPEN & DOAJ available via the library catalogue (national?)

6. A “wiki” (information hub) with the last scholarly articles on a theme available including an introduction on the topic

7. A workshop “how to search for and find & select academic literature” for the general public & for librarians (digital literacy skills)

8. Following a MOOC in your library, organize discussion & support by engaging research community

9. A children’s program / how to search for articles (instead of only books) / experience your lab!

10. Make unexpected connections which “surprise” the user journey

11 . Workshop on data literacy

12 . How to read a scientific article / use scientific publication

1. Access to Research - science for the public: walk in use

2. A national / local MOOC platform: which MOOCs are of interest for your local community and how to use them?

3. Science café in the public library / pop-up-scientist

4. Citizen Science platform, promote. bring together, organize living labs, connect with local citizen science projects

5. Make OA collections such as OAPEN & DOAJ available via the library catalogue (national?)

6. A “wiki” (information hub) with the last scholarly articles on a theme available including an introduction on the topic

7. A workshop “how to search for and find & select academic literature” for the general public & for librarians (digital literacy skills)

8. Following a MOOC in your library, organize discussion & support by engaging research community

9. A children’s program / how to search for articles (instead of only books) / experience your lab!

10. Make unexpected connections which “surprise” the user journey

11 . Workshop on data literacy

12 . How to read a scientific article / use scientific publication